Dear David,

Hope that you're well and that you enjoyed your remaining time in India.

It was great to meet you at the festival, and the interview was really interesting, so thank you. As I mentioned, I'll run any copy past you that makes its way into the round-up feature I'm writing.

As I (hopefully!) also mentioned, it'd be brilliant if you'd be interested in writing a piece on civil wars for the third issue of World Histories magazine. This would specifically be for our Viewpoints section (an example from a previous issue is attached).

This is a collection of opinion columns exploring the historical context to modern trends. I thought some of the material we covered in our chat would be ideal for this: the importance of seeing civil wars in the longview, of how we should be careful of defining conflicts as 'civil wars', and how historical comparisons can help with present-day situations.

How does that sound? The piece would be 550 words with a fee of £175 and a fairly short deadline, if possible, of 9 February. It'd be amazing to include your thoughts on the subject if we possibly can - but, if you do have any queries or worries, please just give me a call on 0117 314 8843.

All the best, and thanks again,

Matt

Hi, Matt,

Could we say 2:50? (I'd like to go to a panel at 3:45.) And just outside the author area sounds good--I hope you can recognise me!

Till soon,
David

Hi David,

Thanks for your message - hope that your day has gone well.

It'd be great to chat tomorrow if you're free. Could we say 3pm? Our passes won't let us into the author area, but we could meet by the delegate area and then go on to wherever is quietest?

Hope that sounds okay. Any worries, though, just let me know.

All the best,

Matt

Hi, Matt,

Looking forward to catching up around the festival. I'm here for the rest of the day today, after lunch tomorrow, most of the day Saturday. When might be a good time to meet?

All good wishes,
David

Dear David

I would like to introduce you to Matt Elton who is books editor at BBC History Magazine and its new sister magazine BBC World Histories. Matt is currently in Jaipur for the festival and asked if you might have some time for a chat while you are both there. The quickest way to connect you seemed to be via email – I hope this works out and you find some time to meet.

Best wishes
Heather
